WIFE OF MAYOR OF RACINE IS DIVORCED

Racine, April 8.—Mrs. Dayne Armstrong in to receive a decree of divorce from her husband, Mayor William Armstrong, and a certain amount of money from his estate, the amount to be determined later. Mrs. Armstrong is to have the custody of the three children and Armstrong must pay $75 a month for their support.

This was decided Wednesday in a compromise agreement reached by attorneys for Mrs. Armstrong and the mayor, bringing an abrupt end to the divorce trial in circuit court.

Judge Quinlan, Marinette, who heard the case, announced that the would declare that Armstrong is the father of the child born last September, the parents of which Armstrong strong has denied.

The end of the divorce action was the result of Judge Quinlan urging the attorneys to arrange a settlement and not continue in the offering of testimony, which was going of the most sensational ever heard in Racine county.

Mrs. Armstrong had been on the witness stand several hours testifying to the ill treatment by her husband to herself and children. She said he called her vile names, accused her of infidelity, and that he had declared that he was not the father of a son born ten years ago or of the child born last September.

She accused him of associating with other women and at one time had demanded that he leave the home because of such associations.

They know where America is overchurched and where underchurched.

They know exactly how they can cooperate in the foreign mission fields to produce the largest results in international education, international health and international good-will.

No business man can study that survey without being impressed by the accuracy and courage with which the task has been approached.

ON THE basis of the survey, the cooperating denominations will unite in a simultaneous financial campaign in the week of April 25th.

The amounts asked for are large in the aggregate; they are small when divided among the church members of the nation—smaller still when you count the whole number of men and women who love America.

The average contribution to the church today is less than three cents per member per day. Think of it. Yet if each person who loves and believes in America will increase his contribution by only a few dollars, the whole amount will be easily subscribed.

Will you do your share for a better America and a better world? Your chance to help is coming in the week of April 25th.

Edgerton News

[By Gazette Correspondent.]

Edgerton, April 8.—A meeting of the milk producers of this vicinity will be held at T. A. B. hall at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening. This meeting is called for the purpose of taking action upon the boycott of the producers by Armour and the Nestle milk company. The local milk producers association will strengthen its organization and farmers are urged to be present and those who are not members are urged to join the association. C. J. Cooper, a man of prominence in such matters, will be present to aid in the organization.

The Junior "Prom" will be held Friday night at Academy hall. This is one of the most prominent social events of the season especially among the younger set.

W. A. Sheller, Milwaukee, and an old time resident of this city, was calling on friends yesterday.

Charles Hitchcock, who recently moved to Rockford, has been here for several days helping in the jewelry store of Christianson and Alseth while Mr. Alseth attended the jewelry convention.

Carl Heller, a high school student, lost his purse containing $8 recently. Thomas Rousch, who has been here for several days helping in the jewelry store of Christianson and Alseth while Mr. Alseth attended the jewelry convention, found the purse and returned it to the owner.

Miss Becker in honor of Miss Holden. Becker was given by a number of her friends Wednesday evening at the country home of her parents. Miss Becker is soon to be married to Elmer Learn.

Mrs. Clinton Price is visiting her parents in Plattville for the week. A chimney fire at the residence of Charles Shoemaker called out the department yesterday forenoon.

D. J. Ristad of the Tobacco Reporter will occupy the L. A. Anderson residence, Bently Place, on May 1. Mr. Anderson will remove his family to Chicago, where he has extensive business interests.

Henry Schmelling, who bought the Bently house is making extensive repairs and is beautifying the grounds.

FOUR FROM HERE STUDY ARMY TANKS

Company "I" Men Go to Maryland, May 1—60 Men Sought in New Recruiting Drive.

At a special meeting of members of Company "I" tank corps held at the armory last night four men drew the lucky numbers for the detail which is to be sent to the army tank school at Camp Meade, Maryland. The school is to begin May 1, 1920 to run for six weeks during which time the men will be given a thorough course of instruction in the operation, care and repair of the light tanks with which the local company is to be equipped in addition to the tank instruction, the men will also learn the operation and care of the machine and 37mm guns with which the tanks will be armed.

The men who are to go are Lieut. Ralph Harmon, and three of the following enlisted men: Sgt. Charles R. McKay, Corporal Roosevelt Fellows, Lawrence Wright and Russell Williams.

Recruiting Contest

In order to wind up the recruiting and prevent one of the platoons from being taken from Janesville the recruiting drive is divided into two sections under Lieutenants Hilt and Harmon for the purpose of a recruiting contest. The contest will last two weeks. At the close winners are to be banqueted by the losers. Several boxes of cigars and other side wagers have also been made among the various members.

The total strength of the company now is 76 enlisted men and 5 officers. The number required to complete the organization and outfit Janesville to the full equipment of 23 tanks, is 9 officers and 132 enlisted men, the larger portion of which will hold non-commissioned grades.

GRIMM RULES ON INCOME TAX CASE

To sustain such a finding. They thereupon treated of stock by its holders, and found a resulting profit of $195.56 per share, which they held subject to income tax. The court reached the conclusion that the stockholders made a profit of $195.56 per share, they must also have found that the preferred stock taken in part payment was equivalent to cash. In this they erred. Until sold or retired by payment this unsold stock is merely evidence of investment and cannot be classed as profits. For the present the plaintiff has, by the transaction, realized as net profit, only such sum as he received in cash from the sale of his common stock; and he will realize a further profit when he is paid for the preferred stock which he still holds.

State Took Wrong View

"But I do not think the state representative referred to took the right view of the issue involved when they levied the assessment as upon profits arising from a sale of the stock."

In my opinion it is immaterial that the plaintiff sold his stock after he had received his stock dividend since he received not more than par therefor.

The statute permits the issuance of a stock dividend of undivided earnings and accrued profits and the income tax law treats such stock dividends, if the accretion occurred subsequent to January 1st, 1911, assessable as income. Adopting the ruling of the state representative in the case above referred to as correct, it would follow that the increase in corporate assets arising from undivided earnings and profits according to advance in value of holdings, or other causes, between January 1st, 1911 and July 1st, 1913, and that such increase warranted the issuance of a stock dividend of 200 percent at par. This stock dividend was issued and delivered to the plaintiff by his authorized agent, and in my opinion is assessable as income regardless of whether he still holds it or sold it since—subject however to an offset of such percent thereof as represents profits upon which the corporation paid the tax.

"If the assessment may lawfully be based as upon profits arising from a sale, the assessment must be modified for the reason that it includes the preferred stock which plaintiff still holds as profits."

"If the assessment must lawfully treat the stock dividend as income then the stock must be assessed at par subject only to the deduction provided by the statute. The amount of this deduction can be readily ascertained from the previous income tax reports of the corporation."

"I am not certain that in the instant case I can, on certiorari, do more than either affirm or reverse; but to bring the matter to a determination where an appeal may be promptly taken for a final adjudication by the Supreme Court, I shall order the assessment modified in accordance with my view of the law as above stated, and, as so modified, affirmed."

The 28 stockholders affected are J. A. Craig, president of the Sarnson Tractor Co.; H. M. Craig, Henry S. Lovejoy, Isabel T. Lovejoy, Julia S. Lovejoy, Norman L. Gable, Josephine A. Gable, Katherine G. Gable, Robert B. Gable, Frank B. Farnsworth, F. H. Farnsworth, Mrs. Eliza Farnsworth, Alice Farnsworth, Arthur J. Harris, Ida Harris, Fred L. Smith, S. M. Smith, Fred A. Capelle, and Helen A. Capelle; J. Arthur Granger and Josephine Granger, William F. Koworth, John C. Koworth, Charles A. Muszleton, Mrs. Romanda M. Reynolds, Mrs. J. W. St. John, Louise A. # GIRLS AND MOTHERS GET-TOGETHER IN JOVIAL BANQUET

Seventy girls and the same number of interested mothers, either natural or adopted, for the occasion attended the banquet last evening of mothers' and daughters' held at the Baptist church. The mothers were initiated into the newest thing in hand claps which has been originated by the Older Girls' council, and they joined heartily in the original songs and choruses which were sung deftly by each table.

The long tables were made attractive with vases of yellow tulips. A delegation of Hi-Y boys headed by A. C. Preston deftly performed the services of waiters. Miss Ella Jacobs was head of the supper committee, and Ethel Miller, Jean McNamara and Marie Hughes, made up the committee on arrangements. The program was prepared by Mildred Look, Thelma Alderman, and Esther Pfleider. Mrs. J. A. McLeod acted as fastidious mistress and introduced the different features of the program in a pleasing manner. Mrs. A. D. McKay, Clinton gave a talk to girls on the topic of "Life Work," which was the theme of the evening. She has three daughters of her own and has had much experience as a mother. She advised choosing the highest ideals and securing the best education possible as a preparation for life work.

Miss Mabel Arbuthnot presented a "Girls' View of Life," in a clever and original way in which the humor was interspersed with the more serious thoughts of the average girl. The idea of keeping the mind on the highest peaks of life was also emphasized.

Mrs. C. E. Ewing gave the answer to the query of life work, from the stand point of the mother and stressed the thought that motherhood is a service to life and devotion to the daughter, although they were absent one from another, and that a mother never fails to dream of girls on the corner of her daughter and her life work.

Miss Dolly Strang gave several vocal selections.

This was the first Mother-Daughter banquet ever held in the city, and while arranged primarily by the Older Girls' council, the women of the City Federation of Missions who had been planning for such an event, helped to make it a success in various ways. They provided indoor mothers, for such of the girls whose mothers were unable to be present with them. Miss Esther Pfleider is president of the council.

LOCAL BUTCHERS MAY DO DOWN SLAUGHTERING

Janesville butchers today turned towards the possibility of having to do their own slaughtering as a result of the freight tie-up caused by striking switchmen at Chicago. No freight, perishable or otherwise, has reached here from the Windy city this week. Much has been routed around Chicago from outside points.

While packing house salesmen sold under promises of shipment by express, no meat has yet been received in this manner. The express companies have curtailed shipments to a great extent, but regardless of this their business has greatly increased.

Janesville railway men, members of the Trainmen's Brotherhood, continued to believe, despite the seriousness of the trouble now, that the insistent organization of yardmen will in the end be defeated through the efforts of the brotherhoods. How long it will take to crush the new union is a matter of speculation. The coal situation is becoming more acute in the city. Because of the Chicago trouble and fuel shortage the Milwaukee system this morning announces a curtailment of passenger train service on the Kickapoo Valley line, near Prairie du Chien. This is the first passenger service on this railroad to be affected.

ACTION OF FRANCE DISTURBS A WORLD

Absence of the United States
from League of Nations
Loosens Check.

(By DAVID LAWRENCE.)
(Copyright 1920 by Janesville Gazette.)

Washington, D. C., April 5.—International neutrality is spreading. France's occupation of German territory against the judgment of the United States, Great Britain and other allied powers is but one symptom. Throughout the world it becomes apparent that there is no central, cohesive effective internationality to enforce the peace treaty, each nation is beginning to look out for her own interests.

Italy is tacitly behind D'Annunzio's occupation of Fiume. The land has reached out for pieces of Russia.

The near east is a tangle of British and French pretensions in Turkey and Syria.

Economic Ruin Faced. Germany's socialist government claims her economic ruin is sought by France and that unless it is permitted to discontinue the Ruhr valley, the monarchial party will come back into power.

Marshal Foch and the French generals, putting no stock in German pleas, have influenced Premier Millerand and the French foreign office to take no chances on the alleged council of diplomats who were trying to dissuade France to go ahead and take German territory first and talk about it afterwards.

This summary of the world situation as gathered in official quarters here involves no accusations against other governments or nations of improper motive. France's action in occupying territory which has been gradually adopted involuntarily by the powers associated with her in the war.

France's Changing Attitude. In America, from whom the French expected so much, there is a constantly diminishing interest in the fate of France as evidenced by the indifference of the senate toward the Franco-American-British defensive agreement which President Wilson submitted to the senate three months ago and which has not even been reported from the senate foreign relations committee. Feeling that she can go to the assistance of the United States, France is taking matters in her own hand, to prevent trouble on her own frontiers.

But while there is a good deal of sympathy with the plight of France, there is no more interest in her. France is not acting wisely for her own best interest and that by her action in occupying German cities and towns she is creating a new and unrest in central Europe, the rehabilitation of which has been so earnestly sought to stabilize European and world peace.

Two Judgments. Two judgments against F. E. Griswold were granted in municipal court today. One in favor of the Citizens' Bank of Clinton for $224 and the other in favor of Bertha Vanderlyn for $59. Preliminary notes formed the basis of the actions.

FIVE MORE WEEKS. O. E. Collins will give several concerts at the revival services of the First Christian church tonight. The revival will continue for five more weeks.

DOING THE HEAVY. Leo Powers and George Raubacher, crack high school athletes, are helping to raise the old Connors' building on Milwaukee street, by carrying away the bricks. They are enjoying Easter vacation of the schools in this way.

Notice. Our food is so perfectly cooked and of such anti-dyspeptic kind that it restores and promotes health.

Where Lungs Fail. But none of these outbreaks, on the part of the allies themselves, either in central Europe, the near East or far East might have occurred if each of the associated powers had had more respect for the league of nations. Their present attitude is convincing evidence of their lack of faith in any international agreement which lacks the physical and moral balance of the United States.

So far as its effect upon our own government, France's advance into German territory is deeply regretted. It serves to cool such enthusiasm as the executive branch of the government here has in supporting the tripartite agreement with France and England whereby the United States and England would come to the assistance of France in the event of an unprovoked attack by Germany on France. Republicans and Democrats look askance at the act of France and wonder what America's obligation might have been if the triple agreement were in effect at present when the French advanced into German territory.

The purpose of the meeting was to show farmers the value of organization, which they can procure through joining the Rock county farm bureau, which is now campaigning to get 2,000 members before the end of the week.

The result in the membership campaign of the bureau yesterday added 239 to the rolls, bringing the total to 1,185. Spring Valley 138; 138, led by J. E. Eggen and Newark, with 123, chairman Henry Wieland, were at the top of the list. Today work was being done at La Prairie, Janesville and Magnolia by which it is hoped to add 300 more. Tomorrow canvassers will scour Rock, Beloit and Milton townships.

Standings of the divisions are: Clinton, 152; Spring Valley 138; Newark, 123; Fulton 113; Plymouth 93; Johnston 87; Cedarburg 70; Lamo 63; Bradford 53; and miscellaneous 41.

A mass meeting to test the sentiment of Janesville manufacturers and employees relative to a proposal to incorporate the daylight saving idea in the city during the summer months will be held at the city hall tonight. The general invitation has been extended to the public to be in attendance.

The idea was fostered by the Rotary club. From here it was taken before the Chamber of Commerce where it found instantaneous approval with the result that the meeting tonight was planned.

No set program is arranged. Approval or disapproval from both employer and employee will be solicited. Geo. S. Barker will be chairman of the meeting.

Speaking today on the matter as it applied locally, Mr. Barker said: "A secret ballot in our factory would be the plant in favor by a vote of three to one. A brief canvass of the business district found the greater number of merchants in favor of the plan. Likewise a big number of manufacturing plants are agreeable."

You can't make your face. Perhaps if you could, you would make it different; perhaps not. But you can make your voice. You can make it gentle or harsh; you can make it pleasant or disagreeable, you can make it common or refined, you can make it pleasing or repelling. Many a job has been refused because of unpleasant voice, many a friendship rebuffed because of tones that grate harshly on the ear. A "common" many social and business opportunities.

SPECIAL NOTICE. Mr. K. E. Peterson, a Neponset factory representative direct from the mills, will be at our store to explain the wearing quality of Neponset Floor Covering today and Saturday. Special price, 75c square yard. Second floor.

FOR SALE: One 8-ft. Disc Harrow and Steel Roller. In A-1 condition. R. C. phone 5592 A.

WANTED: Single man by the month. R. C. phone 5592 A.

Only Two Days More. There are only two more days to take advantage of a special opportunity at the bank. All money that you may deposit in the savings department before the close of business on Saturday night will draw interest from the 1st of April, payable July 1st.

A penny saved is equal to ten pennies earned—because you cannot save all you earn but only about one-tenth. Then if you can get a few extra cents of interest, why not think of it as equal to ten times that amount earned by any other plan? Make your good sense pay you a cash profit by good management.

FORWARD, JANESVILLE!

To make Janesville a better place in which to live and in which to do business, the Gazette pledges itself to work for and support these things:

Housing survey to discourage exorbitant rentals; encouragement of building more houses; appraisal of property values so that rent profiteers may be made to pay the increased amount of taxes.

Open roads in the country 365 days of the year; better roads generally; and support of the road building plans; better streets and more paved streets in the city.

A market pavilion in the city which may also be used for many other purposes by farmers and livestock producers.

A community building to be used for auditorium, sport events, meeting rooms, and also as a fitting memorial for soldiers.

Open the churches seven days a week and stop economic waste in room and time. Make museums meeting places for the young, and provide gymnasium facilities.

Build a real home for the girls who come here to work.

Open the fair grounds this year as a recreation park with tennis courts and other play apparatus. Establish parks and playgrounds.

Better the street car service as population increases.

This day in 1798, Pliny Freeman was born. He was the founder of Life Insurance in America and the plan of insurance as known today was based on Freeman's ideas.

NOW GO AHEAD WITH THE PAYING.

Having settled the question of the kind of paving and let the contract, the council should get back of the needed improvement of Janesville streets and see that nothing blocks its way. And the Gazette again reiterates its position on paving—that the best street can be made of asphalt, and no street of any materials, poorly laid, will be well paved. Inspection of the job of paving is the crux of the whole matter. If we allow the contractor to go ahead without a check we may expect an asphalt pavement that will be useless after a few years. When the streets are properly paved we may all be increasingly proud of Janesville.

FRANCE IN GERMANY.

French armies in occupation of German cities without the permission of the allies is another striking bit of evidence of the utility of a league of nations. Without regard to the action of the United States, the league of nations is in operation with all the great powers in membership, and a score of lesser countries as well. But that has seemed to make no difference to France. With complete disregard of any league her armies have been ordered into Germany, and a number of cities have been occupied by troops of the French army. Each day the weakness and uselessness of the treaty of Versailles becomes more and more apparent. Those in America who have never had faith that the mere declaration, on a parchment, could change the diplomatic tendencies of centuries, will find some satisfaction in the result. Instead of the treaty of Versailles being one for peace, it so far has appeared only as a document of disturbance, national greed, an instrument of revenge and an order for the payment of old scores.

OUR ABSURD PRIMARY LAW.

When that marvel of political legerdemain, Robert M. La Follette, constructed the primary law of the state, he may have had in mind the situation which arose this spring. The law has served him well. It permits socialists, democrats, prohibitionists, republicans, and any other persons affiliated with any other party to vote for republican candidates for any office. They may register their will here and at election completely ignore the implication in the vote that they are members of the party. In other words we have, in Wisconsin, a primary law based on a partisan division of responsibility, but in its operation we refuse to recognize the partisan and permit a non-partisan dictatorship by the voter.

In most of the states where the primary has been established, it is necessary for the voter to declare his party affiliation at the time of voting and that declaration lasts until the next primary is over. He is registered as a democrat or a republican, and he cannot go about fishing in the ponds of other parties, but must remain in his own. There are in the neighborhood of 100,000 socialists in Wisconsin, taking the Berger vote for senator as a guide. Many more than enough of these could have voted in the primary for La Follette without question or in any way stultifying themselves. It is an absurdity that the socialist vote should settle a republican family controversy. But it can be done, has been done and will continue to be done as long as we have this jocularly absurd law on the statutes.

AS TO DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Experiments in daylight saving by some states and cities will undoubtedly show that the plan is not feasible without national cooperation. It will certainly make confusion doubly confounded. We have had our era of time-setting in the United States. In the early days when each community was quite complete unto itself, daylight saving could have been established by a village, city or town without injury to business. Clocks were set and time regulated by the sun at that particular place. A village or city 20 miles away might, and generally did have a slightly different time. When the railroad came the question of time began to grow complex. One started from Boston on Boston time and arrived at New York on New York time. If he went west trains ran on Pittsburgh time, Buffalo and Columbus time or a half dozen other kinds of time depending on the location of terminals. Travel was one continuous round of watch-setting. And then came the genius who framed the plan of standard time. It was first received with misgiving. There were some who said it was poisoning on the prerogative of the Almighty when man arbitrarily set clocks without consulting the sun. But it was the greatest reform that has ever been established in the country and has been universally adopted.

Daylight saving in a community would mean confusion again. The trains would run on one time, the city walk and go to sleep on another schedule. And if one factory adopts it, the plan simply has the effect of beginning an hour earlier and quitting an hour sooner. That is of course their right, and only those employed there are concerned. When the question was submitted to a shop referendum in several factories at Stevens Point it was universally voted down. In that city the retail stores will open and close an hour earlier. Man is a peculiar animal. If the clock in his factory says it is five and the general usage for other clocks is that

BUD'S AVIATOR.

I know an aviator man
Who used to fight the Germans 'n'
He's just as nice as a piece of
An' tells a lot of things to me.
An' sometimes when it looks like rain,
He lets me climb into his plane.
An' wear his leather coat an' cap,
An' take his seat an' fix the strap
Across my knees, pretendin' I
Am really startin' out to fly.

His name is Mitchell, an' he shows
Me just the way the rudder goes.
You hold the stick an' move it so
For flyin' high or flyin' low.
Or loop-the-loop or turnin' round.
An' you must have a lot of ground
To get a start, because you need
To work up quite a lot of speed
To get your plane into the air.
Above the trees an' houses there.

An' Mister Mitchell says that I
Shall some day have the nerve to fly.
But now I can't go up at all
Coz pa's afraid that I might fall.
An' so I stand an' watch him when He's taking up the other men
An' way up there sometimes I see
Him waving back his hand to me.
An' I ain't ever scared at all,
Coz I know God won't let him fall.

—Copyright 1920 by Edgar A. Guest.

The hour is six, he will be rising on the earlier time and reporting for work on the factory clock, but his home and recreation will in spite of himself be regulated by the time generally in use.

We have favored a city referendum on daylight saving as the basis of an ordinance for the general adoption in the community of the saving plan. The council did not see fit to do it and it has been left up to the factories and stores to settle. That means nothing more nor less than a failure to make the law effective. And there is the opposition of the farmer to it also to take into consideration.

Mr. La Follette seems to have won in the delegate contest with a number of men pledged to do as he tells them. As it stands now it is very likely that the delegates will vote for Hiram Johnson. We may expect a complimentary vote for Senator La Follette just to add the seal and the pink ribbon on the certificate of character the state has awarded him as a perfectly all right citizen and harmoniously in step with the ideas of the people of Wisconsin on his attitude during the war. Also Mr. La Follette will have the machinery of the political organization of the state in his hands during the next four years. We shall all try to survive even this blow from the Hun front.

Nothing is too good for the city hall. Naturally we are all interested in that building so representative as the people's home for its business. Therefore only the very small and flimsy persons will object to the elegant floor in the basement costing $2,500. We wonder at the council's self-restraint in not having a more expensive floor laid. Any person who does not feel that they got their money's worth should go to the hall and count the pieces of mosaic in the floor. They will be convinced that it was cheap.

One of the centers of government extravagance is the Bureau of Efficiency. If one looks over the salary list of the administration in Washington, it may be conjectured that the efficiency bureau worked overtime getting high salaries and easy jobs for party workers. Washington is still safe for the democrats.

Picking them out at random here comes the Progress-Examiner of Orleans, Ind., saying the jails of Dubois, Crawford, Orange and Washington counties in that state had no population when the census was taken. The census director wanted to know about it. Gov. Edwards should be informed.

About the best spring tonic the nation can take is increased production and thrift. When we wake up from the deluge of extravagance there will be empty pockets and a gnawing stomach.

When the switchmen quarrel and strike against each other, the public is caught under the wheels and crushed.

FORTY YEARS AGO

April 8, 1880.—A large number attended the exercises at the All Souls church last evening to commemorate the hundredth birth anniversary of William Ellery Channing. Those on the program were Rev. Mr. Fawcett, Dr. J. B. Whiting, Rev. H. Sewell, Hon. John R. Bennett, J. M. Burgess, Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones. A. M. Baldwin presided.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

April 8, 1890.—Miss Olof Kraver talked on Greenland at the Congregational church last night to a large audience. She was introduced by Mr. Wilder. She told of the people and their customs. She appeared in her native costume, made of the skin of a polar bear.—The votes which were to have been re-counted this morning, were withheld by City Clerk Bates, on advice of the city attorney, so this ends the matter.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

April 8, 1900.—Sunday.

TEN YEARS AGO

April 8, 1910.—Leigh Woodworth and John Myers were both badly hurt yesterday afternoon. They were riding on a gasoline track car which struck a break in the rail, throwing both the men. Mr. Myers was taken to a hospital, suffering from concussion of the brain, while Mr. Woodworth, who fared better, returned to his home.

PAINT UP!

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The painting season is on. If you haven't already felt a hankering after overalls, grab a bucket of paint, you probably will soon. The painting urge is a good example of nature's efficiency. You can't paint an overhauled house or spruce things up at Christmas or Fourth of July. Maybe your subconscious mind knows that paint freezes in the winter and dries too quickly in hot weather. Or maybe it doesn't. Either way, spring is the time when you notice that the house looks shabby beside the rejuvenated lilac bush, and that the iron frog fountain is shabby in spots.

Paint is for Protection.
The aesthetic value of paint is not its most important quality. As some one has euphemistically put it, paint is primarily for protection. Paint is designed as a chemical combination of materials which prevents rust or decay. Tests show that decay of structural material sometimes begins before only 24 hours of exposure to the weather.

Manufacturers say that lack of paint causes a greater annual crop of fires than fire. Whether this claim can be reduced to exact figures we do not know. Certainly houses in every community fall into decay through lack of surface protection, and much iron machinery deteriorates from the same cause.

The situation is made worse at present by the fact that labor is expensive and scarce, and paint is from one hundred to two hundred percent over the price before the war. The department of Agriculture has no influence on paint prices, but it makes the suggestion that they be taken a fourth of the cost of a painting job, and that, while painting may be a fine art, the layman can get satisfactory results by following a few simple rules. The first rule, naturally, is to find out what needs to be done. If the surface is a smooth surface, it is not so much as a rough surface, and the paint no longer protects the material, so that moisture easily penetrates the cracks and causes decay.

With good paint materials and careful workmanship, the outside of a house needs renovating once in three or four years. Life of paint on the inside depends largely on local conditions, such as care of property and the climate. Color Scheme. The color of a house is to be done over, it is a good idea to look around your community, and especially your neighborhood, before selecting colors. If you live in a city, brick row, this probably does not concern you, but for suburbanites, and dwellers in wood, concrete and stone houses, finding the right color scheme is often difficult.

In garden cities the color and plan of every house must be appropriate to the local color scheme. Architecture, but in most communities no standard is required, and the desire to brighten up the place often results in a hodgepodge of colors. The effect in these cases is more startling than restful. Brick Red Good Color. A good color for a house is an ugly residence attractive, or at least inconspicuous, while the wrong shade or too many shades often ruin the otherwise well planned house. Brick red is, curiously enough, the most unobtrusive color for a building. Green and brown are also good. Brown being warmer, and harmonizing better with grass and foliage.

White is attractive for certain types of homes, notably the farm and the cottage. White paint is less durable than light blue, according to chemists of the department of agriculture. They advise adding a little cream or buff, or a tinge of gray to add to the life of the coat.

Two Colors Often Used.
Some houses of the bungalow type look well in two colors, one for the lower part, and another color, of a different shade of the same color, for the upper part.

PERSONETTE

BERG BOROWSKY

A lot of things both good and bad have been promised to result from prohibition, but Sergei Borowsky, a war-time of the Moscow Grand Opera company, is perhaps the first one to say that prohibition will make us more musical.

"Many Russian singers have ruined their voices with vodka," says Monsieur Borowsky, "and it is sad to reason that the American singers have lost or at least hurt their voices through drink also. In fact, I know one or two who have done so. The prohibitionists, the new voices which will develop in the years to come will not have to struggle against the deprecations of the demon rum."—Chicago Tribune.

At least M. Borowsky said something like this to a speaker from England and his interpreter spoke the words to the audience. The Russian and the interpreter who handed the questions back and forth seemed to speak the truth. A sad, sad, sad interview was a sadly garbled affair. At least three more people are firmly convinced of the desirability of Esperanto as a result of the talk.

This is M. Borowsky's first visit to America, and he says politely that he likes it very much. "No, no," he says, "as much as America likes him however."

He has brought over an entertainment which should win him the gratitude of the most jaded American audience. The first part of it is that it isn't a commercial sort of show, and it isn't acted and sung by professionals mainly. Five years ago at the beginning of the war M. Borowsky happened to be in Switzerland. Instead of hurrying to some safe and comfortable place from which to watch the war at a distance he conceived the idea of gathering together various stranded music students and dancers and producing a show for the benefit of the allies. The company grew as he traveled about, and the show was such a success with the men that he spent most of the wartime years giving entertainments under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and the Red Cross.

Now the whole company has come to America, and is charming everyone with its balalaika orchestra, haunting folk songs and dances.

When the news of the Russian intervention reached the interpreter what M. Borowsky liked best about America, the interpreter responded without even giving the matter a chance to defend himself, that what he liked best here or anywhere was to have his picture in the paper.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOULTON

A LITTLE SLICE OF LIFE.
The other day we took seven kids to the circus. We borrowed them here and there and promised to deliver them safely home and intact. The man who took the contract to dig the Panama canal had a cinch.

Perishing commanded two million men, but he had an easy job. My gang was the real circus.

The performers watched us and forgot their stunts. Madison Square Garden has been the scene of several prominent uprisings. But never one like this. We finally got home with one cental.

One and a half pant legs. A black eye, and a necktie hanging by a thread. But we got them home safe—The little darlings.

It may have been a circus. For some folks, but for us it was only an afternoon. The moral, if any: Don't borrow children.

OUR CANDIDATE—SENATOR PERKINS OF ARKANSAS.
Since this column has come out about the Arkansas Senator Perkins of Arkansas for president we have been besieged by inquiries concerning the senator's stand on various vital topics. One morning we received nine letters asking what was our candidate's stand on the prohibition question. We forwarded the letters to him and he just received his reply as follows:

"Dear Sir: I do not blame the voters for demanding what position I take on the question. My stand is unequivocal and, emulating the example set by several of my competitors for the great honor which is about to be thrust upon me, if I can get it, I am glad to give my stand on the great subject of prohibition as follows:

"The pearl button crop of Peru was a failure last season. What does it mean? I ask you. In all fairness, also, it will be noted that we have not yet entered into trade relations with Peru. The people and the Russians are about to declare a peace; and if so, why? I predict that they will have a bumper crop of clovebuds in Peru. This season, during this election, a position I shall never forsake, I remain the same."

About Ben Adhem, May his tribe diminish, Or the cost of living Will be lessish.

Contests seem to be all the rage among newspapers just now. In the we are going to start one in the column. Some of the members of the cabinet. The person sending in the first complete list, with names which are about to be properly spelled, will receive a gold prize, consisting of a solid bone collar button.

ASK US

Q. Who are the officers of the Irish republic and where do they have their headquarters? C. P. S.

A. The president of the Irish republic is Eamon De Valera and his headquarters is 1045 Munsey Building, Washington, D. C. Associated with him is Henry Boland, secretary of the Sinn Fein, and John J. O'Mahoney, treasurer of the Irish republic, has his offices in New York City.

Q. How many times did "Babe" Ruth clean the bases with home runs last season? E. B. E.

A. Ruth hit four home runs last season, with the bases empty.

Q. Where is the highest chimney in the world? M. A.

A. The world's highest chimney, rising 775 feet in the air, is located in Japan at Sagami, by an American firm. The chimney is of mammoth proportions. At the base it has an outside diameter of 42 feet, which narrows at the top to an inside diameter of 26 feet 3 inches. The wall has a thickness of 20 inches at the base, and the top is reduced to 7 inches at the top.

Q. Why has February only 28 days while the other months have more?

A. February originally had 29 days every year and 30 in leap year. The Emperor Augustus of Rome wanted to have his birthday on the 29th day while some of the other months had 31, and he decreed that one day be taken from February and added to the month of August.

Q. Is it necessary to have a passport to go to Cuba? Is American money good there? C. D. H.

A. It is necessary to obtain a passport. American money can be used in Cuba, but it has a coinage of its own.

Q. What have been the highest and lowest prices of wheat since 1890? S. F. R.

A. The Bureau of Crop Estimates says that in February, 1895, No. 2 red winter wheat sold in Chicago for 45 cents per bushel. This is the lowest price ever reached. The highest price was reached in May, 1917, when the same grade of wheat brought $4.45 in Chicago.

Q. How many species of insects are there? A. M. W.

A. The most conservative estimate places the number of species of insects at 1,000,000. The estimate of Riley, the famous entomologist, is ten million.

Q. What kind of gas is used in dirigibles and balloons? M. L.

A. Dirigibles and balloons have used hydrogen and illuminating gas chiefly, but helium will probably be used in the future. Helium is less lifting power than hydrogen, but is non-inflammable, and is now being made on a commercial scale.

Q. How many species of insects are there? A. M. W.

A. The Naval Observatory says that the "Big Dipper" moves in a circle around the North Star in a very short time, about 6 minutes; this being the length of a sidereal day. When above the pole, the constellation moves from east to west; when below the pole, from west to east. The motion is apparent only, being due to actual rotation of the earth; and like the diurnal motion of the sun and moon, takes place in the opposite direction to that of the earth's rotation.

rotation. What are the trans-continental railroads in the United States? D. E. Y.

A. There are six railroads that come under this designation: Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Great Northern, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul; and Atchafalaya, Tonopah and Santa Fe.

Q. What birds make a practice of robbing others of their food include the Jaegers, the Frigate Birds and the Bald Eagle.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been married almost 15 months. For the first year my husband was as dear as before we were married. Then baby came and because she was sick with colic a great deal and cried in the night he became irritable. Now he spends his evenings away from home, usually in bed, and I know that there is not another woman in the case. He is just tired of the baby and me. He gives me money when I ask for it and is good in that way, but he no longer seems contented in his home. Sometimes he asks me to go to the picture show with him, but of course that is ridiculous because I cannot leave baby. What can I do to win back my husband? I feel terribly lonely, staying in at home alone.

MABEL.

You must give more time to your husband and less to the baby. Since he gives you money when you ask for it, you should be able to hire someone to come in evenings to stay with her. Try to give your husband as much time in the evening as possible. Stack the dishes and do not wash them until the next morning. It is annoying to wake up in the morning and find a pile of dishes, but it is better than to spoil a evening.

Your husband might be interested in some book. Suggest reading in the evening and he will probably be willing to stay with you at least a few nights. Probably he misses you. Try to get him to go to the picture show with you. The fact that he invites you to go to picture shows proves that he would like your company if he could have it.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am worried about my husband. He is very sensitive and if anything upsets him at the table he has to stop eating and go into another room. Sometimes he takes a dislike to some food I am serving and then he looks him in the same way. He is not in exceptionally good health and therefore I feel that it is necessary to have him eat good meals. It does not seem good to say I am sorry or to urge him to come to the next meal. He has to have quieted enough so that he thinks he will digest his food.

What can I do to induce him to eat?

FLORENCE.

You are spoiling your husband with too much consideration. Of course care should be taken not to bring up unpleasant things during the meal. When he is irritable and becomes an— at no fault of yours, let him go and stay away from home until he is so hungry that he comes back without any urging from you. Probably you flatter, but at the same time you irritate him further by bringing up unpleasant things. If his health is often the result of a disagreeable disposition.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is it customary to wear mourning for a step-sister? We had been brought up together and were both married. She died of cancer. What mourning would be appropriate?

G. L.

It would be perfectly proper to wear mourning for a step-sister, but hardly necessary. Mourning is gloomy and gives a spirit of sadness to the wearer and to all who look upon it. It seems to me a better thing to do in the case of a step-sister. Many people feel as I do in this matter and therefore mourning is being worn less and less. If you think, however, that your step-sister would be pleased to have you dress in black, and if you want to, it would be proper for you to wear mourning. Wear all black or black with a touch of white. No colors should be worn.

THE CALLING OF THE NURSE
Nearly every girl turns over in her mind for a time the advisability of becoming a trained nurse. It is a step to the romantic evolution of the star. She has a pleasant magazine type of nurse cooling the pretty banded brow or some collar advertisement type of nurse and the professional looks good to her.

Nursing is nothing like that. Nursing is about the hardest and most ungrateful occupation a girl can undertake. And nursing is sadly underpaid.

It requires, first, a complete high school training, and then three years of grueling hard study and hard work under strict discipline in the hospital training school to make a nurse. There is no such thing as a pretty girl-magazine nurse about it, and a whole lot of discouragements which the outside world knows nothing about.

Yet there is no calling finer or nobler than a healthy and serious young woman can follow. There is a shortage of nurses now and therefore this is a good time for girls to take up the calling. Given the preliminary high school training, good health, and a sincere desire to help the sick, the girl can enter the hospital training school and make a career for herself. The family physician's certificate, good teeth, and good character, the young woman who has serious intentions may address the Superintendent of Nurses of the Training School of any hospital where she may wish to study and ask for information concerning admission to the training school.

I don't want her to write me about this, because I am seldom able to give any information along this line. For her write the Superintendent of the Training School, as I have suggested.

The trained nurse today commands a position of honor in her community, the affection of many of her patients or former patients, and payment for her services varying from $10 to $50 weekly, according to local custom and the character of the case. Of course, she can't work all the time and remain well. She must have a week or two off duty at frequent intervals in order to keep reasonably fit. She must have, and will have it, she is competent nurse, reasonable hours for sleep and for outdoor recreation every day when she is engaged on a case. No one worthy of the care of a nurse can expect that nurse to remain constantly in attendance, no matter what the circumstances may be. It is constant watchfulness is necessary. Another nurse or a member of the family must regularly relieve the nurse in charge to permit her to obtain sleep and recreation. Otherwise her best

HER HUSBAND IS APPOINTED TO THE KING'S HOUSEHOLD

Countess of Bradford.

The Earl of Bradford recently was made a member of King George's household, being named lord in waiting to succeed Lord Hershell. Lord Bradford's wife, Lady Bradford, is known as one of the most brilliant women in London's social set. Bradford served throughout the world war as colonel in the Royal Scots regiment. He also served in the Boer war.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

LINDSEY MEETS A MAGNETIC COUSIN AND FEARS THE WORST.

As we were talking on life in general, Harvey walked in to my place. Jean had evidently asked him to call for her there. So woman-like. Harvey seemed quite a shock, for Harvey Russell reminded me very much of my own Jack. He is tall and broad, and strong. His point of view is almost identical to Jack's. Really sometimes I think that when you know one man, you know them all.

He looked disapproving when I asked him to call on me. I got quite a thrill out of being the bad member of society for once. How my old pal has changed. She refused a "tag" when I offered her one. I am sure the meek shall inherit husbands, if not the earth, say I!

Harvey certainly seemed to have the same quaint prejudice against studies for the very young that Mr. Edmonds (that's Jack when I'm critical) has. He looked my place over in a slow, maddeningly watchful way and then fixed his keen gray eyes on poor little me, as though to see just what sort of person I was, and whether quite safe for Jean to run with.

This look unloved the right devil within me, and I was transfixed. I got up and I acted like a very blasé and experienced person. And I smoked five cigarettes in succession. Harvey said I was a "cool" one. Well, after a chilly half hour he arose, and true to type, so did Jean. That girl already has a drop in her shoulders, so I know that she has felt the advance notices of matrimony, for all her talk. And oh, how low and delect her voice! Harvey should hear Jean when she is in form and rolls off a few choice invectives against the whole race of menmelians and so on. After a few things and have they beat it. I had the laugh of my life all to myself. Just at things in general.

Then I, too, departed for home sweet home. Here I crashed into a very tall and good-looking young man, with snappy black eyes and hair, and an impudent smile. He turned out to be a cousin of mine just landed from England, and whom we had never seen before. Cecil Archers is his name, and he looks good to me. They say that cousins are most dangerous, and I'm inclined to believe it, for there was nothing very comely about the first glances that Cecil treated me to all through dinner, from those dancing eyes of his. I can tell you. He has the most adorable accent and we all teased him to death about his la-de-da-de talk. I forgot to say that he kissed me when mother introduced us, and I liked it. Cecil seemed to stir some restless spirit deep within me, that had never stirred before. Maybe it's because he's an importation. I hope so, for then that feeling will wear away as we get familiar with each other.

Of course, it was up to me to entertain him this evening, so we went to a movie, and I just couldn't keep my mind on the pictures for that disturbing presence, next to me. Several times in the dark our eyes met, and it seemed to me that I was looking into two burning flames, that called out life to me. I almost wish this tonight, so I know that she has felt the advance notices of matrimony, for all her talk. And oh, how low and delect her voice! Harvey should hear Jean when she is in form and rolls off a few choice invectives against the whole race of men-and about one-half teaspoon of salt; stir. Use a bowl or pan large enough to stir easily. Into this stir a tablespoon of melted butter or substitute and add enough sweet milk to make a stiff dough. Spoon the dough into two pie pans that have been slightly greased. Do not touch with hands. Place pie in oven and bake at 350° for 15 minutes. Sprinkle with flour and dots of butter or substitute, and bake at once. Use any kind of fruit except pears.

WHEN EGGS ARE CHEAPER
Shirred Eggs—Shirred eggs are delicious and easily prepared. If an egg shirrer is not at hand a set of muffin rings will answer the purpose. Put a generous dot of butter, or substitute, in each compartment according to the eggs required; allow to melt and see that it coats the sides of the tins so that the eggs will not stick. Sprinkle a few fine bread crumbs in each and carefully break an egg in each. Dot a few more crumbs over the eggs and put a little water in each tin not in use to preserve the pan.

Place in a moderately hot oven and watch carefully. When the whites are set and the crumbs a delicate brown, the eggs are done and easily removed with a spatula or ordinary knife.

Baked Omelet—Baked omelet is also delicious. Beat the number of eggs required with an egg beater, add a tablespoon of water for each egg. Season and pour in a well buttered dish. As soon as it is light and fluffy serve at once on warm plates.

PLEATS AND MORE PLEATS ARE FAD FOR THIS SPRING

By ELOISE.

You must wear your new frocks pleated if you would be fashionable this year. Skirts, blouses, collars and cuffs, in fact almost everything features pleats. Perhaps plain skirts are the first on the list for they are invariably pleated. Some are box pleated, some are accordion pleated and some are made with inverted box pleats. Skirt skirts in navy blue worn with clown jackets and frock skirts are next on the pleated list.

Here is a spring model whose main feature of distinction is its accordion pleated skirt. It is fashioned of serge and makes a practical frock for spring, fall or between seasons' wear. The bodice patterned somewhat after the blouse and is embroidered all over in silk floss with clab-

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Miss Mabel L. Dorsey.

San Jose, California, is going to be the first town in the west to have a Community Educational Theater, according to reports from that city. This proposed theatre is not merely going to present plays for the benefit of the community, but it is to operate designs. The neck and short sleeves are finished with pretty collar and cuffs of dainty white organdie and lace. Such a frock may be worn upon many informal occasions and is suitable for wear with or without a wrap.

of the community, but it is going to promote acting, among the citizens themselves. It will afford an opportunity for every person from the tiniest tot to the oldest citizens to gratify the desire to appear in the world of make-believe, according to Miss Mabel L. Dorsey, who started the idea.

Miss Dorsey, a graduate of a leading school of music and expression, took up the question of establishing the school with members of the Chamber of Commerce of the city and it was enthusiastically received by them. The primary purpose of the theater is not to make actors, but to develop men and women as well as adult residents of the community to display their talents in singing, speaking and dancing.

HERE AND THERE

Canada is preparing to send a delegation of 30 or more women to the convention of the World's W. C. T. U., to be held in London next month.

Women comprise nearly one-third of all the wage-earners in the United States.

Indiana had the first woman's prison in the world entirely controlled and conducted by women.

In 16 towns of Florida the women now have municipal suffrage.

The Jackals and the Elephant
And the Memory-Man said:
In a certain forest lived an elephant who was vain and fat. In the said forest there was also a bunch of hungry jackals who were eager to feast on him, but could find no way to kill the big beast, so the shrewdest of the jackals came to him and said:

"Royal Sir, we are the most numerous of all peoples of the forest and wish you for our king. Though we be little, we are strong. Come to our sacred pool where you may be ceremonially washed and crowned as king over all the jackals."

The concocted elephant was so pleased with the honor of becoming a king that he forgot the treachery and evil of his prospective subjects and followed the jackal, who led him to a pool in the forest in the middle of which there was a tiny bog. Into this the elephant sank so deeply that he could not escape nor fight, and the treacherous jackals ate him up, every scrap.

Those who accept the jackals for the sake of vanity often come to an evil end.—R.W.

HE WAS HIRED TO STAY
The jury was evidently getting on the judge's nerves, and at last he announced the verdict.

"I discharge this jury!"

A tall, lean member of the 12 then rose.

"Say, judge, you can't discharge me!"

"Can't discharge you? Why not?" thundered the judge.

"Well," replied the jurymen, pointing to counsel for the defense, "I was hired by that guy over there!"

Even a girl with dreamy eyes is apt to be wide awake to her matrimonial chances.

Indian Bride Will Refute Charges of Broadway Past

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—Richard Croker's young wife is not an Indian princess at all, as he thought she was when he married her in 1914, according to declarations of the former Tammany chieftain's children in documents supporting their suit recently instituted here to have Croker declared incompetent to handle his business affairs.

Mrs. Ethel Croker White, once Croker's favorite daughter, is the author of an affidavit in which it is asserted her father has become mentally incompetent and cannot converse rationally.

Crocker's other daughter, Mrs. Florence Croker Morris, has thus far maintained a neutral position. The affidavits of Howard and Richard Croker show a pitiful decline of the old man's powers which had enabled him to fight and defeat the most crafty politicians in the old days in New York.

Within six weeks after meeting the vivacious brunette he had married her, a victim, according to his children, of deceitful methods. Richard Croker describes various efforts which, he claims, were made to induce the old man not to remarry. Just after the death of their mother the children met their father at the family residence and Croker described to them the trust fund he had provided.

Not much later he announced his intention to marry Bula Edmundson and cooled in his attitude toward the children.

For all of the Tammany leader's acquaintance with New York, its political machinery its characters and people, the older son avers that Bula Edmundson "knew New York better" than the great Dick Croker himself. Mrs. Croker declares she will conduct the defense to refute the insinuations of her step-children that she was well known in Broadway resorts before marrying Dick Croker.

BRYAN'S MAN IS SEC'Y. MEREDITH

Commoner Favors the Secretary of Agriculture as Presidential Candidate.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1920, by Janesville Gazette.)

Washington, D. C., April 8.—William Jennings Bryan has looked over the list of men available for the Democratic nomination for the presidency and come to the conclusion that Edward T. Meredith, secretary of agriculture, who hails from Des Moines, Iowa, is the best equipped, best qualified and best suited to the demands of the rank and file of the party for a progressive candidate.

Mr. Bryan's views have been disclosed to leading Democrats with whom he has recently been in informal conference here. Curiously, Mr. Meredith himself is not an aspirant for the nomination but is an avowed supporter of William G. McAdoo, for whom he is trying to get the Iowa delegation.

But the Commoner thinks the Wilson lead hangs too heavily around the neck of Mr. McAdoo, and while he is personally fond of the former secretary of the treasury and has a high regard for his ability, he thinks the son-in-law argument would be a difficult one to surmount in the campaign.

Not Pleased With Palmer
As for Attorney General Palmer, Mr. Bryan chafes because of the injunction issued by Mr. Palmer against the coal miners. The Commoner thinks the Democrats should keep in the good graces of labor, and while he approves heartily of Mr. Palmer's prohibition views, he doesn't think the attorney general can qualify as a friend of labor.

To all the candidates on the list Mr. Bryan applies this test—prohibition, woman suffrage, friendliness to labor, capacity for business administration, and recognition of the interests of the farmer. Mr. Meredith supplies all of these qualities. He ran for governor of Iowa on a dry ticket and is known as a champion of prohibition. He has ardently supported woman suffrage. He has taken a broad attitude on the question of labor, and was appointed a member of the public group in the president's first industrial commission. Mr. Meredith is, moreover, a successful business man. He is the editor and publisher of "Successful Farming," one of the largest farm periodicals in the country. He is a promoter of other large business enterprises and thinks in terms of business efficiency. He favors the league of nations and has been a consistent supporter of President Wilson.

Not a Serious Candidate
As a matter of fact, Mr. Meredith has never taken himself seriously as a presidential aspirant. Many of his friends here, however, who are not inclined to think he has much of a chance this year, even with Mr. Bryan's support, say he would make an excellent candidate four years from now as he would by that time have acquired an intimate knowledge of government administration through his membership in the cabinet.

Mr. Meredith is himself one of the "big four" in Iowa's delegation to the Democratic convention at San Francisco. While he has worked hard to have the delegates go uncommitted, he is at the same time eager to have Iowa support ultimately the candidacy of William G. McAdoo on the floor of the convention. Other members of the Iowa delegation are striving to have Iowa's delegates instructed now under the unit rule for Palmer. There will be a state conference of Iowa Democrats next week when no doubt the supporters of McAdoo and Palmer will begin the battle for an instructed or uninstructed delegation.

Bryan for Meredith
Meanwhile the attitude of William Jennings Bryan is significant of the course he intends to follow. Mr.

Bryan himself is not likely to be a delegate to the convention. No-brains here insist that there are more wets than dries in the Democratic primaries in Nebraska and that Senator Hitchcock and a wet ticket of delegates will win. This makes Mr. Bryan all the more anxious to select a leading dry from the neighboring state of Iowa to support. Whether he is a delegate or not, Mr. Bryan is out to make the Democratic convention dry. And Edward T. Meredith is and has been a pronounced advocate of prohibition for many years. So the spectacle presents itself of a former secretary of state in the Wilson cabinet supporting the presidential nomination the secretary of agriculture as against the attorney general and a former secretary of the treasury in the same cabinet.

Selects a Wilson Man.
Whatever the dramatic episodes of the Jackson day dinner may have spelled at the time, they have failed to introduce any substantial element to compete with the hold to which the Wilson men seem to have on the fortunes of the Democratic party. Even Mr. Bryan leans a Wilson man as his own candidate. And the next nominee, whoever he is, will be approved or disapproved on the record of the titular leader of the Democratic party—Woodrow Wilson.

The mantle of charity is soon worn threadbare by a hypocrite.

HOW TO SELECT SEEDS

Know the Ancestry of Seeds You Purchase—Seed Farms Are Located Where Soil and Climate Are Favorable for Best Development of Vegetables.

(Written for the United States School Garden Army.)

What does a seed contain?—A seed contains an embryo plant and sufficient food to nourish the plant until it has grown enough roots and leaves to nourish itself. The kind of plant the seed will grow into depends upon its parentage. Best seeds look alike, yet one kind will grow into lettuce and the other kind will not be ready to harvest for 120 days. This difference is due to the selection of the seed plants.

Factors to consider in purchasing seed.—(1) Freshness: seeds purchased in bulk are always more likely to be fresh than those in small packages. (2) Variety: the most desirable varieties of seed are purchased from reliable seed farms. Too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the importance of purchasing seeds from reliable seed farms that make a specialty of selecting, growing and furnishing seeds of high quality.

Seed growing.—Seed growing has developed into a special class of farming. Seed farms are located where the soil and climate are especially favorable for the best development of the particular vegetable to be grown. For instance, cabbage thrives well in a cool climate, and therefore these seed are best grown in the north. Many cabbage seed farms are located in Connecticut and Long Island. Watermelons, on the other hand, are a warm weather crop, so these seed farms are located in Georgia. Lima bean and field pea seed farms are located in California.

PAVING CONTRACTS AWARDED BY CITY

that the council had followed due legal procedure in carrying out the paving program, and that no petition of property owners for any one kind of pavement had been presented, the council had the right for immediate action and letting of the contract.

Resolution for Asphalt.
After some difficulty in getting properly under way, Alderman Dulin finally started the ball rolling by introducing a resolution to use sheet asphalt in Janesville, going on to explain that he stood for asphalt because of its splendid service in Chicago, Milwaukee and other cities under all kinds of traffic. Alderman Kelly made discussion of the resolution possible by seconding it.

Attorney W. H. Dougherty was the first property owner to talk on the resolution explaining at the outset that he had been delegated by truck owners to enter a protest against sheet asphalt. He was interrupted frequently by Mayor Welsh who at one interval asked him if the truck owners he represented were not the Janesville Sand & Gravel company. Admitting this, he said there were also other truck owners he appeared for, the interest of all of whom was only that the city would adopt a pavement on which they would not be barred with their trucks. They feared with adoption of asphalt they might be prohibited from traveling on the streets, as it had been done in other cities, he said.

Local Company Disinterested
The Janesville Sand & Gravel company is not interested for any other reason than this, Mr. Dougherty declared. "Mr. Jensen told me yesterday that in fact they would make more money if asphalt were adopted than they would if concrete were. That is not their point. It is claimed that asphalt will creep and buckle under heavy traffic."

Alderman Dulin assailed the commission form of government for having allowed people of the Third ward to be "hoodwinked" into having cheap asphalt streets, taking another rap at it for not having done more paving. The mayor took the floor of the chamber and exposed propaganda of the Portland cement association, declaring it would be an "outrage and a crime" for the city to adopt concrete for paving. He told of 1,700 miles of paving in Chicago, 1,300 miles of which is asphalt. Concrete is used only in alleys in Milwaukee and Chicago, he and Dulin declared. Taking exception to the mayor's slam at cement propaganda, Mr. Dougherty later declared the asphalt people were equally as guilty of spreading propaganda, as he had done work for both.

Mr. Jensen's Appeal for Concrete.
J. R. Jensen of the Janesville Sand & Gravel company reiterated Dougherty's statement in regard to his company's interests. He drew attention to the concrete street in front of the Sanson plant declaring their engineers built it to stand all kinds of heavy traffic. He said the big gravel trucks had never yet been barred from a concrete street, although in Milwaukee they are prohibited from driving more than a half-block on asphalt.

The matter came to a vote shortly before 10 o'clock with asphalt scoring the almost unanimous victory of 9 to 1.

Eggs Are Nationalized By Soviet Order in Russia

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, April 8.—Eggs have been nationalized in Soviet Russia, according to advices to the state department today from Viborg. On March 3, it was stated, Lenin issued a decree apportioning the number of eggs to be delivered to the Soviet from each section of the country.
